PREFACE

This report presents statistics on the number of inhabitants of the State, its counties, and minor civil divisions (townships, etc.). In addition, separate figures are also presented for urban places, wards of cities of 5,000 or more, and other areas of the State. These data are based upon tabulations from the Seventeenth Decennial Census of the population of the United States, its Territories, and possessions conducted as of April 1, 1950. Provision for the Seventeenth Decennial Census was made in the act providing for the Fifteenth and subsequent decennial censuses which was approved on June 18, 1929.

The major portion of the information compiled from the Census of Population of 1950 will appear in Volume I, Number of Inhabitants, and in Volume II, Characteristics of the Population. This report is a preprint of Chapter 4 (Arkansas) of Volume I, which is to present, in a single publication, statistics on the number of inhabitants for each State.

The materials presented here will also appear as Chapter A of Part 4 (Arkansas) of Volume II. Volume II will comprise a series of separately published parts, one for each State and a summary for the United States. The use of separate parts makes the basic materials on characteristics of the population for a given State available to the public in a single publication. Within the part for a State, Chapter A will recapitulate the statistics on the number and distribution of the population within a State; Chapter B will present statistics on the general characteristics of the population of the various political subdivisions of the State, such as counties, incorporated places, and the like; and Chapter C will present data on the detailed characteristics of the population of the larger areas within the State, such as cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more and standard metropolitan areas.

The materials presented here were prepared under the supervision of Howard G. Brunsmann, Chief, Population and Housing Division, and Dr. Henry S. Shryock, Jr., Assistant Chief for Population Statistics, by Dr. Henry D. Sheldon, Chief, Demographic Statistics Section, and Charles P. Brinkman, Chief, Population Distribution Unit; the compilation of the statistics was under the direction of Robert B. Voight, Assistant Chief for Operations. The collection of the information on which these statistics are based was under the supervision of Lowell T. Galt, Chief, Field Division. The geographic work, including the delineation of special types of urban territory and the preparation of maps, was under the supervision of Clarence E. Batschelet, Chief, Geography Division.

ARKANSAS

Number of Inhabitants

The State.—Arkansas was organized as a Territory in 1819 with boundaries which included most of the present area of Oklahoma. The area of the Territory was reduced in 1824 and 1828 to substantially the present boundaries of the State. It was admitted to the Union as the twenty-fifth State in 1836. Its population on April 1, 1950, according to the Seventeenth Census, was 1,909,511. The State has a land area of 52,675 square miles. In 1950 there was an average of 36.3 persons per square mile as compared with an average of 37.0 in 1940. Among the States, Arkansas ranked thirtieth in population and twenty-sixth in land area.

In 1840, the first year in which it was enumerated as a State, Arkansas had a population of 97,574 (table 1). In 1950, 110 years later, its population was almost 20 times as large. The largest numerical increase and rate of growth in the twentieth century occurred between 1900 and 1910, when the population of the State rose 262,885, or 20.0 percent, over the 1,311,564 persons enumerated in 1900. In each of the following decades, the rate of growth was below that of the preceding 10-year period, culminating in the first decline in the history of the State in the decade 1940 to 1950. The 1950 population was 39,876, or 2.0 percent, below the 1940 figure.

Usual place of residence.—According to usual Census practice, which dates back to 1790, each person enumerated in the 1950 Census was counted as an inhabitant of his usual place of residence or usual place of abode, which is generally construed to mean the place where he lives and sleeps most of the time. This place is not necessarily the same as his legal residence, voting residence, or domicile, although, in the vast majority of cases, these different bases of classification would be identical.

In the application of this rule, persons were not always counted as residents of the places in which they happened to be found by the census enumerators. Persons in places where guests usually pay for quarters (hotels, etc.) were enumerated on the night of April 11, and those whose usual place of residence was elsewhere were allocated to their homes. Visitors found staying in private homes, however, were not ordinarily interviewed there. Information on persons away from their usual place of residence was obtained from other members of their families, landlords, etc. If an entire family was expected to be away during the whole period of the enumeration, information on it was obtained from neighbors. A matching process was used to eliminate duplicate reports for persons who reported for themselves while away and were also reported by their families at home.

Persons in the armed forces quartered on military installations were enumerated as residents of the States, counties, and minor civil divisions in which their installations were located. Members of their families were enumerated where they actually resided. In the 1950 Census, college students living away from home were considered residents of the communities in which they were residing while attending college, rather than as persons temporarily absent from their parental homes as was the practice in 1940. In 1950 the crews of vessels of the American Merchant Marine in harbors of the United States were counted as part of the population of the ports in which their vessels were berthed on April 1, 1950. In 1940 such persons were treated as part of the population of the port from which the vessel operated. Inmates of institutions, who ordinarily live there for long periods of time, were counted as inhabitants of the place in which the institution was located; whereas patients in general hospitals, who ordinarily have short stays, were counted at, or allocated to, their homes. All persons without a usual place of residence were counted where they were enumerated.

Urban and rural population.—The 1950 urban population of Arkansas comprised 630,591 persons, or 33.0 percent of the population of the State (table 1). This population was living in the 64 urban places in the State and in other territory included in the urban fringe of Little Rock–North Little Rock and the Arkansas part of the urban fringe of Fort Smith. Nearly one-third of the urban population was living in urbanized areas (table 2).

The rural population of Arkansas numbered 1,278,920 persons, or 67.0 percent of the population of the State (table 1). Of the rural population, 102,072 persons, or 8.0 percent, were living in the 65 incorporated and unincorporated places of between 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants (table 2).

Urban definition.—Under the urban definition established for use in the 1950 Census, the urban population comprises all persons living in (a) places of 2,500 inhabitants or more incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns,¹ and villages; (b) the densely settled urban fringe, including both incorporated and unincorporated areas, around cities of 50,000 or more; and (c) unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more outside any urban fringe. The remaining population is classified as rural. According to the urban definition used in previous censuses, the urban population comprised all persons living in incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and areas (usually minor civil divisions) classified as urban under special rules relating to population size and density.

In both definitions, the most important component of the urban territory is the group of incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more. A definition of urban territory restricted to such places, however, would exclude a number of equally large and densely settled places, merely because they were not incorporated places. Under the old definition, an effort was made to avoid some of the more obvious omissions by the inclusion of the places urban under special rules. Even with these rules, however, many large and closely built-up places were excluded from the urban territory. To improve the situation in the 1950 Census, the Bureau of the Census set up, in advance of enumeration, boundaries for urban-fringe areas around cities of 50,000 or more and for unincorporated places outside urban fringes. All the population residing in urban-fringe areas and in unincorporated places of 2,500 or more is classified as urban according to the 1950 definition. (Of course, the incorporated places of 2,500 or more are urban in their own right.) Consequently, the special rules of the old definition are no longer necessary.

According to the 1950 urban definition, the urban population of Arkansas included the following components: (1) The 617,153 inhabitants of the 62 incorporated places of 2,500 or more; (2) the 6,105 inhabitants of the 2 unincorporated places of 2,500 or more; and (3) the 7,333 persons living in the urban fringe of Little Rock–North Little Rock in the one incorporated place of fewer than 2,500 inhabitants, Cammack Village, and in unincorporated territory. Since there were no places urban under special rule in

Arkansas according to the old definition, the population of the first element comprised the urban population under the old definition. The sum of the other elements—13,438—represents the gain in the urban population which resulted from the change in definition.

Although the Bureau of the Census has employed other definitions in the course of its history, the statistics on the population by urban and rural residence for the years 1810 to 1940 are shown in accordance with the 1940 definition. The 1950 statistics are shown in accordance with both the new and old definitions.

Trends of urban and rural population.—Trends in the urban and rural population can be examined only on the basis of the old definition. On this basis, the urban population rose from 111,733 in 1900 to 617,153 in 1950 (table 1). In each decade of the 50-year period the rate of growth of the urban population exceeded that of the rural population. The gain of 185,243 between 1940 and 1950 was the largest numerical increase of the 50-year period, whereas the rate of increase, 42.9 percent, was the largest since that for the decade 1910 to 1920. The proportion of the population of the State living in urban territory rose from 8.5 percent in 1900 to 32.3 percent in 1950. Each of the 12 cities of 10,000 inhabitants or more shared in the growth of the urban population between 1940 and 1950, with the rates of increase ranging from 16.1 percent in Little Rock to 107.9 percent in Fayetteville (table 4).

The rural population of the State, which was 1,199,831 in 1900, increased to 1,292,358 in 1950 (table 1). The largest numerical increase and rate of growth in the rural population over the 50-year period came in the decade 1900 to 1910. Between 1940 and 1950, the rural population declined for the first time in the history of the State. The loss of 225,119 represented a decline of 14.8 percent from the 1,517,477 persons classified as rural in 1940. The proportion of the population of the State living in rural territory dropped from 91.5 to 67.7 percent between 1900 and 1950.

Counties.—The 75 counties in Arkansas ranged in size from Perry with a population of 5,978 to Pulaski with a population of 196,685. Between 1940 and 1950, 19 of the counties increased in population. All but one of the counties which increased in population between 1940 and 1950 were included in those which had gained population in the preceding decade (table 5).

Minor civil divisions.—To the primary political divisions into which the counties are subdivided, the Bureau of the Census applies the general term "minor civil divisions." In Arkansas the minor civil divisions are called townships. The cities and towns form subdivisions of the townships in which they are located. The population of each city, town, and unincorporated place is shown in italics under the population of the township in which it is located. When a place is located in two or more townships, the population of the several parts is shown in table 6 under the appropriate townships, and each part is designated by "part." Figures on the total population of such places are given in table 7. Changes between the 1940 and 1950 Censuses in the boundaries of areas listed are shown in notes to table 6. For changes in boundaries prior to the 1940 Census, see reports of the Sixteenth Census (1940), Population, Vol. I, pp. 102-109, and reports of earlier censuses.

Incorporated and unincorporated places.—Arkansas had 419 incorporated places and 9 unincorporated places of 1,000 inhabitants or more. These places ranged in size from three which had no population reported in 1950 to Little Rock with a population of 102,213. There were 814,825 persons living in the incorporated places, 197,872 of whom were in the 357 places of fewer than 2,500 inhabitants. Of the 17,317 persons in the unincorporated places, 11,212 were living in the seven places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants.

Political units recognized as incorporated places in the 1950 Census are those which are incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns, and villages with the exception that towns are not recognized as incorporated places in the New England States, New York, and Wisconsin.

The Bureau of the Census has delineated boundaries for the thickly settled urban fringe around cities of 50,000 or more and has also delineated boundaries for unincorporated places of 1,000 or more which are densely settled population centers without corporate limits. Although there are unincorporated places within the urban fringe, it was not feasible to establish boundaries for such places and therefore they are not identified as separate places.

The count of urban places in the 1950 Census includes all incorporated places of 2,500 or more regardless of location and unincorporated places of 2,500 or more which are located outside the urban-fringe areas. Incorporated places of less than 2,500 which lie in the urban fringe are not recognized as urban places.

Urbanized areas.—The only urbanized area entirely within the State is the Little Rock-North Little Rock Urbanized Area, which had a population of 153,643. Of the 56,046 persons living in the Fort Smith Urbanized Area, 54,355 were in the Arkansas part and 1,691 in the Oklahoma part. There were 207,998 persons in the State living in urbanized areas, 194,252 of whom were in the three central cities of the areas—Little Rock, North Little Rock, and Fort Smith—and 13,746 of whom were in the urban fringes of the areas. The urban fringes included 7,400 persons living in the two incorporated places and 6,346 in the unincorporated parts (table 9).

Each urbanized area contains at least one city with 50,000 inhabitants or more in 1940 or according to a special census taken since 1940,² and some urbanized areas contain two or more cities of 50,000. Each urbanized area also includes the surrounding closely settled incorporated places and unincorporated areas that meet the criteria listed in the section below on "Urban fringe." Thus, the territory of an urbanized area may be classified into incorporated parts and unincorporated parts. (See urbanized area maps.)

An urbanized area may also be divided into central city or cities and urban fringe as defined below.

Central cities.—Although an urbanized area may contain more than one city of 50,000 or more, not all cities of this size are necessarily central cities. The largest city of an area is always a central city. In addition, the second and third most populous cities in the area may qualify as central cities provided they have a population of at least one-third of that of the largest city in the area and a minimum of 25,000 inhabitants. The names of the individual urbanized areas indicate the central cities of the areas.

Urban fringe.—The urban fringe includes that part of the urbanized area which is outside the central city or cities. The following types of areas are embraced if they are contiguous to the central city or cities or if they are contiguous to any area already included in the urban fringe.

1. Incorporated places with 2,500 inhabitants or more in 1940 or at a subsequent special census conducted prior to 1950.
2. Incorporated places with fewer than 2,500 inhabitants containing an area with a concentration of 100 dwelling units or more with a density in this concentration of 500 units or more per square mile. This density represents approximately 2,000 persons per square mile and normally is the minimum found associated with a closely spaced street pattern.
3. Unincorporated territory with at least 500 dwelling units per square mile.
4. Territory devoted to commercial, industrial, transportation, recreational, and other purposes functionally related to the central city.

Also included are outlying noncontiguous areas with the required dwelling unit density located within 1½ miles of the main contiguous urbanized part, measured along the shortest connecting highway, and other outlying areas within one-half mile of such noncontiguous areas which meet the minimum residential density rule.

² Fort Smith had a population of 50,724 according to a special census taken as of March 17, 1949.

² Part of Lauderdale County, Tenn., annexed to Mississippi County in 1940.

³ Includes 7,333 persons in urban territory outside of urban places.
